APPENDIX C

The Administrative Commission for Hamilton: Westwood convened at 2:30pm on Sunday, November 7, 2021 at Westwood Presbyterian Church in Hamilton, Ohio. Members present were: RE Janice Kronour, Chair; MWS Steven Schumm; RE Danette Shuler, RE Robert Storm, Clerk; and MWS Denise Weaver.

The meeting was called to order by RE Kronour and MWS Steve Schumm opened with prayer. The Administrative Commission (AC) met first with MWS Norman Godfrey, Stated Supply Pastor for Westwood. The Rev. Godfrey became the pastor for Westwood in December of 2012 and announced he will not be seeking or accepting an extension of his call with Westwood in 2022.

MWS Godfrey spoke with the AC for thirty minutes about his time with Westwood and the events leading up to the request for an AC to facilitate closure. He provided the AC with minutes from meetings in 2018 and 2021. He informed the AC that there was concern amongst the Westwood Session with our proposed agenda that included calling a for a Congregational meeting for the purpose of voting on whether to close, as the Session and Congregation feel they already did this. He stated that we (AC), “will need to give them a good reason for voting again.”

At 3:00p the AC, along with MWS Godfrey, met with the Session and officers of Westwood. RE Kronour opened this portion of the meeting with prayer. The AC members introduced themselves and Westwood members did the same, in turn, relating a favorite memory of their time at Westwood.

Westwood members then discussed the present situation at Westwood and what events led to it. Each was clear that they felt the congregation already voted to close. Several questions were asked about next steps and the AC promised to seek answers for those questions not readily answered. Much consideration was given to the current renter of the manse and this issue is important to the Session.

It was agreed that a Congregational Meeting would be called for Nov. 28, 2021 for the purpose of voting on whether to close and, if that vote is in the affirmative, hold the final worship service on Dec. 26, 2021.

RE Storm closed the meeting in prayer at 4:30p.

Respectfully submitted,

Rob Storm
Clerk

MINUTES OF THE
ADMINISTRATIVE COMMISSION FOR HAMILTON: WESTWOOD

DATE: February 2, 2022

MEMBERS PRESENT: RE Janice Kronour, Chair; RE Danette Shuler; MWS Steven Schumm; MWS Denise Weaver; and RE Robert Storm, Clerk

The Administrative Commission (AC) for Hamilton: Westwood convened at 2:04 pm, via Zoom, on February 2, 2022. All members were present. Janice opened the meeting with prayer.

The meeting was conducted according to the agenda distributed to members by Janice on January 31, 2022.

Janice was pleased to report that many items in the AC's remit had been accomplished and thanked members for their efforts in assisting Westwood and shepherding their assigned tasks.

To date, no Westwood members have requested transfers of their memberships. Hamilton: The Presbyterian Church extended invitations to members to join them in worship. Denise continues to monitor this situation.

A discussion of financial matters followed. Steve continues to serve as the designated liaison to Westwood Treasurer Steve Angle. Rob reported that the billing addresses for utilities and taxes have been changed and will now be mailed to the Presbytery offices. No name change on the accounts has occurred, because doing so would require the creation of new accounts and accompanying fees.

Outstanding issues surrounding the printer remain. Danette continues to seek a resolution.

Discussions were held with the realtor who manages the rental payments and they, too, will now go to the Presbytery offices.

Janice reported on her conversations with the trustees concerning the property. Danette has been in contact with a prospective surveyor should the property need to be divided.

Janice then discussed possible next steps and reviewed tasks that remained outstanding.

Steve closed the meeting in prayer at 2:45 pm.

Respectfully submitted, Robert S. Storm, Clerk

Annette Brown Bequest

Annette Brown's life was deeply impacted by her experiences in youth ministry in the Presbyterian Church. When she passed away in July 2021, Ms. Brown left $16,000 to the Presbytery of the Miami Valley (PMV). Upon receiving this kind and generous bequest and learning of Ms. Brown's dedication to and interest in youth ministry, it has been recommended that this be gifted to the Presbyterian Youth Connection (PYC) Network of the PMV. The PYC Network has been actively hosting youth events and providing funding for PMV youth to attend ministry and mission events since at least the 1990s (when it was the PYC Council). The PYC Network could use this funding in a variety of ways to providing meaningful, spiritual, and engaging experiences for young people in the presbytery. Examples are below.

- The PYC Network itself is an opportunity for youth to minister to other youth while being advised by youth ministry leaders across the presbytery.
- Almost every year since at least the 1990s, the PYC Network has hosted a Spring Youth Retreat (formerly Spring Youth Rally). For many years, PYC brought in speakers from across the country and the event drew 80-100 youth and their advisors from across PMV. PYC would greatly appreciate the opportunity to fund speakers again. (The PMV Network Support Committee does provide generous funding for speakers, but this funding could enhance who the PYC Network is able to invite.)
- Since at least the 1990s, the presbytery has provided 1/3 of the funds needed for youth to attend the Presbyterian Youth Triennium (PYT) and also funding to host global partners. This event brings youth from around the world together for several days every three years for an incredible time of fellowship, worship, and small group reflection.

Ruling Elder Marjorie S. Morgan
Chairperson, Committee on Ministry
Presbytery of the Miami Valley
1541 South Smithville Road
Dayton, Ohio 45410-3242

Dear Gentleperson Ruling Elder Morgan,

The Coronavirus pandemic has devastated the world internationally, nationally and locally. It has drastically impacted our personal lives and our ability to perform daily activities of living. Instead of attending Worship Services on Sunday or Bible Study in person, we are regimented to virtual worship services at home. When venturing outside, persons are encouraged to remain socially distant, wear some form of facial covering and wash one's hands frequently.

Indeed, our lives are emotionally and physically stressed and changed beyond our wildest dreams. The CDC has identified Afro-Americans to be at a greater risk to be infected by the Coronavirus. According to the latest statistics in the state of Ohio, 160,000 persons have been infected and 4,931 have died. In Montgomery County, 8,417 citizens have been infected and 181 have died.

In the midst of this chaos, Chairperson RE Eliot Heflin and the members of the 2021 Nominating Committee of Trinity Church are confronted with the task of nominating persons to serve as Ruling Elders, Deacons and Trustees of the Church commencing January 2022. It is apparent, things will not be processed in the customary manner.

Following several in-depth virtual discussions, the Nominating Committee and the Session are requesting a waiver of the current policies and procedures of the Book of Order 2019-2021, G-2.0404 Terms of Service that addresses the nomination process of church officers. The suggested waiver is to continue the current terms of the Church officers of the Class of 2021. It will extend their terms through the year 2022 or when otherwise determined, with individual consent. Such an action will greatly assist Trinity Church in continuing to implement its ministries, missions, and community outreach programming. Your attention to this matter is greatly appreciated.

Yours in Christ,

Ruling Elder Mary Jean Blackmon
Clerk of Session

"Our Church doors are always on welcome hinges."

David Lee Fleming

JULY 11, 1940 – APRIL 2, 2022

FLEMING, David Lee of Beavercreek, Ohio, husband, father, brother, and friend to many, entered into eternal life with his loving God on Saturday, April 2nd. He is survived by his wife, Cecelia, children, Deborah (Brad) Sundheimer, Denise Mattingly, Matthew (Kate) Fleming, and his seven grandchildren.

David was born in New Castle, Indiana, on July 11, 1940. He spent his life in the service of God, country, and community. A graduate of Butler University, McCormick Theological Seminary, and The Ohio State University.

He served The Presbytery of the Miami Valley as Associate Executive from 1988-2001. Previously he served as Pastor to First Presbyterian Rushville, Indiana, First Presbyterian Urbana, Ohio, Calvary Presbyterian Logansport, Indiana, Executive Director Kirkmont Center, Adjunct Faculty at United Theological Seminary and Fortis College, as well as Interim Pastor at many Presbyterian Churches in the Dayton, Ohio area. He retired with the rank of Colonel from the U.S. Army Reserve as a Chaplain after 22 years of service, having been active duty during Operation Desert Storm at USA Meddacc, Ft. Campbell, KY. David was involved in many volunteer efforts during his life.

These are times of mourning for all those who have been part of the Miami Valley Presbytery for a number of years because of our loss of friend and colleague, pastor/educator, and presbytery associate executive, Rev. David Fleming. Early on, David served the presbytery as pastor of the Urbana church; and then moved to the position of program staff to the presbytery, working as guide and friend to committees of several program areas. In later years, he served as interim leader of Kirkmont Center when that became necessary. He was, over the years of his service, appreciated by all as pastor and interpreter of policy-- and, because of his extensive sense of humor, he was enjoyed for his abilities for entertainment and fun. He was highly skilled in providing support through well-developed abilities in greeting, organizing, and resolving issues using his ability to encourage understanding in times of disagreement. His understanding of the work of staff as "colleagues" contributed to the enjoyment of the relationships he brought to the many variations of relationships among presbytery clientele. We will always remember him as a "natural" in friendship and service to all those he was called to join as partner in our common work. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him. His service to the witness of the resurrection was held April 30 at Westminster Presbyterian Church, 125 North Wilkinson Street, Dayton OH.

Rev. 23 January 2022; 9 February 2022; 18 April 2022

Statement of Call
Rachel Boden

My spiritual director once told me that I should “keep my image of God in a paper cup,” so that it can always be tossed out and replaced with a new image. Throughout my life and in my sense of call, I have found this to be an accurate illustration of my ever-evolving and growing relationship with God.

My earliest God-image took the form of an all-knowing father figure; a stereotypical view of God for many. My faith has always been strong, instilled in me by my parents from a very young age. Though I have always been heavily involved in church life, ministry as a vocation never crossed my mind.

Even so, my involvement in my home church, along with my father image of God, remained consistent until 2010, my sophomore year of college. That spring, the employment of the church’s youth director, a woman who had been instrumental in my faith formation, was unexpectedly terminated. This decision was something I openly questioned, and it caused me to turn my back on the institutional church. I had a difficult time understanding God’s apparent absence in church politics, and my God-image became that of a distant, indifferent bystander for a time.

Upon graduation from college, I landed back at home working as a substitute teacher. The associate pastor of my church at the time and my father, a member of Session, approached me and asked if I would like to work at the church as their Children’s Ministry Coordinator. They needed good educational staff, and I needed the financial means to move out of my parents’ home. I accepted their offer, more out of necessity than desire. I was curious as I began work for the very institution that had broken my trust, and my God-image shifted yet again to that of a knowing teacher. “Just try it,” God seemed to say.

The first time I felt that this part-time job might become something more was during my work directing Vacation Bible School that summer. I was finally able to see God truly at work for the first time, and suddenly my work became more than a job. I spent every day in the office that summer, pouring myself into my work and looking for more to do. I found joy working alongside God, and God became for me a spiritual coworker – a partner in ministry. The children’s ministry program began to thrive, and I saw the potential for ministry as a vocation for the first time.

The next turning point in my journey into ministry came later that summer in the form of a full-time teaching position I had dreamt about. I was surprised to find that when offered the position, I hesitated. I grew angry with God as I struggled with two possible paths, each of which I felt I had been invited to travel, and my image of God transformed briefly into a stubbornly silent challenger. After several days of careful discernment (and shouting matches with my invisible, omnipresent opponent), I responded to the job offer. “I’m sorry, but I think I am being called into ministry.” Even as I wrote the words I did not fully understand them, but it felt right, and God again became my ally.

My part-time job at the church became full-time as my ministerial vocation became clearer and my relationship with the institutional church healed over 6 years of joyful partnership with God. I did not think it possible that I would ever leave the job I loved, so I was surprised when my next call-sense came in 2019. I had grown curious and open to other roles of leadership within the church, moving from education to an interest in pastoral care and worship leadership. God’s gentle nudges coupled with affirmations from my pastors and my family gave me the courage I needed to answer God’s call yet again. This time God took the form of a playful friend, curious and inviting as we journeyed together to seminary. This has remained the steadfast image of God for me over the last two years.

The God who is calling me into ministry is a dynamic, ever-changing presence in my life. My image of God does, indeed, remain in a “paper cup” as the God calling me into ministry has taken myriad forms throughout my journey, each meeting me precisely where I am. Though my image of God shifts, I sense this new call to ministry as an invitation to share God’s unchanging love through Word, practice, and example as I lean into my own growing relationship with God.

Statement of Call – Emily Knoth

Barbara Brown Taylor, once said, “I didn’t want to be a priest. I wanted to do the work that priests do, and that required becoming a priest.” For obvious reasons, you can assume that, unlike Barbara Brown Taylor, I do want to be a pastor, or else I wouldn’t be standing in front of you today. But I still resonate with this quote deeply. My call to become a Minister of the Word and Sacrament has been shaped around the work that ministers do, not what they are called. My calling has largely been revealed to me through my experience working with Youthworks, an interdenominational, short-term mission trip company. Where I often was presented with the opportunities to “do the work” that pastors do.

My journey with Youthworks began shortly before my eighth-grade year, as an attendee of a mission trip in small-town, Steubenville, Ohio. Here, I had the first opportunity to “do the work” that pastors do. I was able to show my love for Christ through acts of service and relationships with others. One rainy day on that trip, in a nearby nursing home, I watched with delight as an elderly woman chased my father around after he teased her for not dancing with him. Her eyes sparkled mischievously and I think I heard God giggling. Regardless of the fact that I had grown up in the church from birth, this way of loving others was brand new, and it rocked my world.

My first summer working for Youthworks I spent my summer serving in Savannah, GA. At the time, I was worried about not having a passion for my major, and spent the summer in turmoil over not knowing my “one true calling”. I liked kids, I liked people, I liked diversity, I liked leadership, I loved Jesus, and I loved serving, but that left me with too much to work with. An adult leader that came around the eighth week of my summer was patiently listening to me vent through this crisis when she interrupted me to ask, “You have prayed about this, right?”. My eyes grew wide, “Yeah of- of course! Definitely!” That night I prayed for my calling to be revealed to me for the first time, begging God for clarity. I thought that if God could just send me a sign, I’d be good to go. The next morning, as adult leaders were shoving their students back into the vans, an adult leader jogged up to me to exchange goodbyes. I hadn’t spoken to him all week and was surprised to see him walking toward me. “Good luck with everything!” he said “I can’t wait to see the amazing work you’ll do as a pastor one day!”. I laughed. A pastor? I talk too much. I have too many big ideas. I’m too confused about what I believe. I attempted to dismiss it immediately, but I went home after that summer with the interaction still on my mind and began pulling book after book on theology, curious as to if it could hold my attention. It became yet another piece to work into the puzzle of my calling.

My second summer with Youthworks was spent in West Virginia. I had spent the end of my school year getting involved with the Westside Free Store, the first non-profit I would fall in love with. I would eventually become the store manager there, again having the opportunity to “do the work” a pastor does as I became intimately intertwined in friendship with the community of folks served at the Freestore- who were often in and out of houselessness, or food insecure. As I spent time serving food, coordinating volunteers, and starting new programs I began to find myself straddling the line between two communities. Straddling the line between the community of churches that came to volunteer at the store and had access to resources that they desperately wanted to share, and the community of folks who came to the store and who needed resources and who often wanted to convey this to the rest of the world.

I also spent time that year volunteering at my first megachurch, the first church I would fall out of love with, helping out with youth ministry. I began feeling uncomfortable with the megachurch I had been going to, and the way we were told to talk about the gospel. I started recognizing the harm Churches can have on a community. I began to sense the white savior complex in myself and in other adults I was meeting. That summer, I met a female pastor who offered communion to another pastor that refused to take it from her because of her sex. She told me that I would always be too feminist for my church friends and too churchy for my feminist friends. She promised me there were women like me, and I would meet them, but they were all somewhere called seminary. I came home that summer hating church but loving Jesus. I turned to my pastor for help, and she offered up the idea of Princeton for the first time.

My third summer with Youthworks was spent in South Dakota. My year was full of coming out to my friends and family as gay, learning that the church treated me much differently when I let them know the truth about me, and I began existing in the margins for the very first time in my life. I began to understand my own identity as a young, white, able-bodied, queer, cis-gendered woman as something that further allowed me to straddle lines between two different sets of communities, and as a deeply important part of my calling to do the work that pastors do. I was ready for a third round of serving all summer, or so I thought when I boarded the plane to South Dakota. I would soon find out that I had over-exhausted myself tenfold. I had recently become the president of my sorority, the young adult commissioner of my local Synod, and had spent all year as the manager of the non-profit I fell in love with. I loved leadership, and my gifts of advising, collaborating, and problem-solving were revealed to me that year in new ways, but it drained me without me realizing it.

I only spent two weeks in South Dakota before I realized how burnt out I was and I flew back home. I spent the rest of my summer home, doing a different type of work that pastors do. I read I slept, I prayed, I spent time with God, I stopped running and started walking. I learned that God was there too. God was there even though I was not giving a speech, feeding my houseless friends, or leading 80 teenagers in worship. She was there in rest, and it turns out that I'm still worthy of my calling even when I rest.

I am still learning how the “work that pastors do” takes different shapes and forms, most of which I have yet to even discover. As I lean more and more into the identity I hold, I continue to straddle the line between different communities that allow me to do this work in new ways. So I will end this call story with a confident claim that over and over in my life, God has graciously revealed to me that I am called to do the work that pastors do, and therefore God has called me to pastoral ministry.

APPENDIX L

Staff Support Committee of the Presbytery of the Miami Valley

“So if anyone is in Christ, there is a new creation: everything old has passed away; see, everything has become new! All this is from God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ, and has given us the ministry of reconciliation; that is, in Christ God was reconciling the world to himself, not counting their trespasses against them, and entrusting the message of reconciliation to us.” 2 Cor. 5:17-20

Staffing and Operations. Take a moment and consider that in just over four years, almost the entire staff of the Presbytery has changed in function, structure, and those individuals who are serving the Presbytery. We are grateful for those serving now, and particularly to Don Nowak who has been a constant presence, source of information and communication, and a patient and trusting team member in the midst of massive change. In addition to the staff changes, operational structures and formats for much of the Presbytery’s work have also changed – technology (computers, copiers, phones, etc.), communication tools like the web site, office space and more. Driving this amount of organizational change is a huge accomplishment of the Presbytery staff and this committee as well as others. With much of the transition work now behind us, the committee most recently worked in concert with Trustees to address the role of Treasurer, a previously staffed position, taken on by the Trustees on a temporary basis, now defined as a part-time volunteer position. If the way be clear, John Ey of the Staff Support Committee will resign from the Staff Support Committee and take the position of Treasurer for the Presbytery. John has volunteered significant time already in the transition to Realm, working with financial information, reports and policies. We are grateful for John's willingness to assume this role, and for his financial and business expertise.

Policy and Practice. The committee has completed significant work on Policy and Practice review which will contribute to the Presbytery-wide work in this area as it moves forward.

Reviews. The committee will begin the review process for our Executive Presbyter this summer.

Other stuff. Staff Support continues to provide operational support with Realm and other areas as needed.

A huge thanks to those Staff Support Committee members who are finishing their service: Judith Barr, John Ey, and Sherry Webb. Thanks and gratitude to Laurence Bartel and Julia Williamson who will continue to serve, and also to those coming on to the committee. The committee is grateful for the wisdom, presence and leadership of Terry Kukuk, EP and Lynn Bova; and to all staff members of the Presbytery for their service. Your efforts do not go unnoticed and we are grateful.

Submitted with gratitude and thanks by Diane Ziegler, Outgoing Chair

Synod Commissioner Report

The Synod of the Covenant met Tuesday, May 3rd via Zoom.

The meeting was very full with worship, information on innovative ministry in the Synod; updates on grants, trainings, and other Synod resources; and information on “back-office” progress in the Synod’s operations.

Three ministries share information on their innovations with the body.

- Rev. Li Dolly Dong of Mansfield shared of her Worshipping Community among Chinese immigrants in Mansfield. In addition to serving a congregation, she began a ministry in a restaurant after becoming friends with the owners and establishing additional connections among Chinese immigrants in the community. She emphasized listening and relationship building with people, being responsive to God’s movements, and being willing to serve. This ministry is one from her heart in response to the Gospel’s call to baptize and make disciples and by grace this Worshipping Community is growing.
- Paula Larson of Boyne City First Presbyterian Church shared that after considering whether or not the community would miss the church if it was not there any longer, that the congregation knew that they needed to change their perception in the community. Even as the congregation is without a pastor, the Session and willing members have undertaken an ambitious commitment to monthly outreach in the community. Each first Sunday of the month they do not gather for worship but go out into the community. They have taken care packages to nurses, long term care workers, snow plow drivers, postal workers, and others. They have conducted prayer walks and talked to business owners about how they can pray for them. They have provided care packages to High School seniors, support for teachers, backpacks for school children, and host an energy station at cross country meets that includes water, fruit and chocolate milk for the cross-country team. Their care and compassion to the community has been met with gratitude and thanksgiving.
- “Revbethany” (Bethany Peerbolte) is a pastor in Detroit who has become a TikTok star (you can find her @revbethany on Tik Tok). She posts daily videos on Tik Tok that get 10K – 90K views. She shared that she thinks that this kind of ministry is a new parable. She said that we all have something that is a quirk – like she is a night person and that works great for digital ministry. She encouraged people to see the gifts in the things that they might think are odd about themselves and use those gifts for ministry.

Following the Innovative Ministry sharing, the Interim Executive, Chip Hardwick shared his report. Chip shared the many opportunities that are available through the Synod: scholarships, grants and trainings. Please take a look at these resources – there is a lot that is available to congregations!

Rev. Luke Choi shared Board of Pensions information following Chip's report.

The meeting then went to a number of things related to "back office" functions of the Synod. The Synod staff and leadership are taking this year to get the Synod operations in strong order. This included a report from the Nominating Committee and a recommendation from the Finance Committee to engage external accounting services. A position description for a community organizer for communities of color was shared and approved. Position descriptions for the Synod Executive and Clerk of Session were shared, and Chip Hardwick and Fran Lane-Lawrence were elected to fill these positions respectively, moving out of Interim status. Both have done an excellent job in their Interim ministry with the Synod. Interim Stated Clerk Fran Lane-Lawrence then shared an update on a GAPJC Decision. The meeting then was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

Diane Ziegler, Commissioner
