

CLARK COUNTY JAIL CHAPLAINCY

THE JONAH PROJECT

The Jonah Project, Clark County Jail Chaplaincy.

The Jonah Project continues to work to help change lives in the Clark County Jail. It is a Christian based non-profit that works with men and women who are incarcerated in the Clark County Jail. The work with volunteers to help coach, guide, and pray for inmates as they seek to live a different life when they return to our community.

Volunteers work in the jail with inmates to provide services such as personal visitation, small groups, literature distribution, and other curriculum-based programs helping to address drug and alcohol recovery, mental health, workforce development, and spiritual needs.

Jonah Project operates solely on donations, and they are the largest program working in the Clark County Jail that is working every day to address inmates' physical and spiritual needs.

Please join us at Honey Creek as we support this important ministry.
