General Parking Information

It's May in our college town! Final exams are looming and soon-to-be graduates are all over town all day long, celebrating, taking final photos, and taking up all of the parking spaces!

For the Presbytery meeting, OPC reserved the city lot (see driving directions) for 38 vehicles. The lot is directly across the street from OPC on Church St. We have also reserved 4 spaces in front of the church for those with mobility issues. We urge all our guests to carpool, if possible, in order to have available convenient parking for everyone.

If you are unable to secure a reserved parking space, you will find metered parking on Church St. as well as on adjacent streets. The parking meters cost 25 cents per hour and the city parking patrol does check the meters. Our advice is to not tempt the patrol and pay the meter when you first park for all the time you plan to be in Oxford. Metered parking ends at 8:00 p.m. – you don't have to pay after that time. Many meters take coins and credit cards while others take only coins.

OPC wishes safe travels to all and looks forward to seeing you on May 13.
